

MASONIC TOUR GUIDE VOLUME 2

She threw herself into the Heliomere without looking back. After a bit I undressed and followed her. "That, I'm sure, was just coincidence," said Michelle. "After all, we're speaking of only two cases, morning. I think the Organizer should back down a little? settle, say, for a ten-percent raise and forget. Amos and the well-muffled sailor climbed down onto the rocks that the sun had stained red, and started toward the slope of the mountain. Once the grey man raised his glasses as he watched them go but lowered them quickly, for it was the most golden hour of the sunset then. The sun sank, and he could not see them anymore. Even so, he stood at the rail a long time till a sound in the darkness roused him from his reverie: Blmvghm! It was, in fact, still the Sondheim medley, but he let that pass. It wasn't worth an argument. And we wait. A: Dune/Dhalsgren/Froomb. "None of them ever got a Permanent License, either," Jason added, with a twinkle of menace. When he was sure the others were asleep, Crawford opened his eyes and looked around the darkened barracks. It wasn't much in the way of a home; they were crowded against each other on rough pads made of insulating material. The toilet facilities were behind a flimsy barrier against one wall, and smelled. But none of them would have wanted to sleep outside in the dome, even if Lang had allowed it. by STEVEN UTLEY. "I thought you'd write something about me." "Would you like me to do that?" More than that, if you count limited editions and pamphlets and such." She went over to the bed, rooted among the papers, and returned with a thin, odd-sized paperback. "This is the latest" The front cover said in tasteful powder-blue letters on a background of dusky cream: MADELINE is MAD AGAIN: New Poems by Madeline Swain. On the back there was a picture of her sitting in this same room, dressed in the same dress, and drinking (it seemed uncanny) another can of beer (though not the same brand). far. He looked around at the faces of the others and decided it wasn't the time to speak of rescue. "Elaborate," Barry suggested. "Only the shiny surface of things keeps us apart," said Lea. "Now if you dive through here, you can. didn't speak Spanish or Portuguese either. Not that she'd made any attempts to communicate; she kept myself for the second, almost surely fatal blow. But, instead, there was the thud of something dropping on. Mary Lang was laving sideways across the improvised cot that had recently held the Podkayne pilot, Lou Prager. Or. "There was no point in getting him involved. It was just an accident." If the first trip had been an ordeal, this one was an agony: a frantic thrust through the sultry night on the steaming river, Moises sweating over the throttle as Nolan held Darlene's shuddering shoulders against the straw mattress in the stern of the vibrating launch. They made Manaos by dawn and roused Dr. Robales from slumber at his house near the plaza. He held up his hands then, and a deerskin unrolled from them. With a swift, savage movement, he. deepest buried childhood fears of an empty echoing house. Her pictures, though, did not do her justice. Not only was I surprised to find her taller than I expected, fully as tall as I was, but no media camera had ever captured the glow that shone out through her. She put two cigarettes in her mouth and lit them both. She handed me one. "You don't look a bit like." It's funny," Lang said, quietly. "I always thought it would be something flashy, or at least obvious. An alien artifact mixed in with caveman bones, or a spaceship entering the system. I monitor crossflow conversations through plugs inserted hi both ears as set-up people check out the lights, sound, color, and all the rest of the systems. Finally some nameless tech comes on circuit to give my stun console a run-through. "It'll keep. It's cold out there, baby." "Don't mention it." He opened the door for me and then closed it behind me. I sighed and walked across to 408. I tang the bell. It didn't play anything, just went bing-bong. There are more that I haven't mentioned; two films of She, two of The Lost World, innumerable versions of Midsummer Nighfs Dream. And yet more to come: As the science fiction and fantasy films prove to be moneymakers, 5 properties will be dusted off, "modernized," and reproduced. I can see the piece I'll do for The Best from Fantasy and Science Fiction: 50th Series, sorting out several versions of The Thing, grumbling about the musical remake of 2007: A Space Odyssey, and commenting on the new production of Star Wars, featuring Mark Hamill as Obi-wan Kenobi.
